

Glenn Glazer
SECRETARY, SANTA CRUZ DEMOCRATIC CENTRAL COMMITTEE

Glenn is running as part of a slate of strong progressive candidates that includes Wendy Harris, Amanda Harris Altice and Joe Thompson. Our slate is called Redwood Progressives, please visit us at <https://www.redwoodprogressives.com/> .

Glenn first became involved in politics when he heard Bernie Sanders' call in 2015 to get involved. And so he did, working as a core volunteer for both presidential runs and later running and winning two terms as an Assembly District Delegate (ADEM) to the California Democratic Party (CADEM).

When not fighting for rural Californians, he is a senior software engineer by profession, where he works helping immigrants and low income persons build credit and obtain high end financial services.

He is the current Secretary for the Santa Cruz DCC since 2022 where in addition to minuting all meetings, he manages all of the internal communications and archives.

He is an Executive Board Member of CADEM, where he serves on the Rules Committee and is a Regional Vice-Chair of the CADEM Rural Caucus.

Themes of his advocacy are:

- Making PG&E responsible for their actions and to deliver reliable service.
- Working to get all Californians healthcare under CalCare.
- Fighting for rural areas getting our fair share of infrastructure improvements, including roads, water and broadband for all.
- Advocating for solar power (and getting it for his home), clean energy and other sustainable, climate friendly technologies.
